Russ Ultimatum Demands Finnish Troops Leave Border

Dewitt MacKenzie Interprets Today's News
From War Zones

It was a bad week-end for Britain at sea, with the loss of two more big ships—the Polish liner Pulsudski which was chartered by England, and the armed merchant cruiser Rawalpindi—but there was no indication that the plague of mines was any worse.

In assaying the extent of this very definite menace the nazis have thrown in the way of the allies, we should remember that the German mine and submarine campaign in the World war was much more severe in late 1916 and early 1917 than it is now.

That was the period when Admiral Jellicoe, commander-in-chief of the Grand Fleet, told the prime minister that the loss of shipping alone might soon force the allies to conclude peace. Besides the unrestricted boat warfare, the kaiser's submarines were laying their mine-eggs in clusters like caviar.

The allies had a tough time, but the ultimate answer was that the kaiser ceased to be the all highest mine-layer and became the exile of Doorn. British Premier Chamberlain declared last night that none of the recent losses had affected Britain's "overwhelming naval superiority" and asserted England soon would master the mine.

The really new aspect of this situation thus far apparent—barring possible technical improvements in the mines—is that the Germans have been laying mines from seaplanes, which does present an entirely fresh problem for the allies. They must figure out a way of combating this smart innovation before they can clear the seas of mines.

The British navy undoubtedly will get some easement from this mode of mine-laying during the

Movies' Strike Threat is Past for Time Being

Hollywood, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A threatened strike which might have closed the nation's motion picture theatres is past, but the 20 per cent wage increase which 23,000 craftsmen won will be reviewed early next year.

Producers capitulated to demands of the Conference of Studio Unions (A. F. of L.), controlling the workers, and granted the boosts Saturday, retroactive to October 10. Earlier 12,000 members of another A. F. of L. affiliate, the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, were granted a similar increase.

William Bioff, chairman of the union conference, estimated $3,000,000 additional will go into employee pay envelopes annually. Bioff had threatened to call out I.A.T.S.E.—affiliated projectionists in the country's playhouses in sympathy, thus cutting off essential day-by-day revenue to the studios.

Producers and the union agreed to a conference on or before February 15, at which time the former will present figures in support of their assertion that the war has so reduced income that the pay raises may prove ruinous. A union statement reiterated assertions that retrenchment should start in high-salary brackets.

ORDER TO SEIZE GERMAN EXPORTS SIGNED BY KING

Edict is Avowed Reprisal for Nazi Mine-Laying Activities

London, Nov. 27.—(AP)—An order in council for the seizure of German exports was signed today by King George VI as an avowed reprisal for German mine-laying warfare.

The order for the complete blockade of Germany will be published in the London Gazette tomorrow and probably will become effective in a few days.

The action came as new shipping losses were reported by the Admiralty.

The Holland-America 8,859-ton freighter Spaarndam sank in the Thames Estuary. The crew of about 40, and one passenger, an elderly woman, were rescued by a pilot cutter.

(The line announced at Amsterdam the ship was sunk by a mine below London.)

At the same time, the Admiralty disclosed the capture of two German freighters, one of which later was destroyed by a German submarine as she was being taken to a British port by a prize crew.

The communiqué said the 3,670-ton North German Lloyd steamer Borkum was "abandoned and driven ashore" and that four Germans were killed during the encounter. The report said the prize crew suffered no casualties.

American Victim

London, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Four seamen and an elderly woman passenger identified as an American were killed in the sinking of the 8,859-ton Holland-America freighter Spaarndam by a mine in the Thames Estuary, it was announced today.

A Reuters (British news agency) report from Amsterdam said the woman passenger was a "Mrs. Stefan."

Previous reports said the crew of about 40 and an elderly woman passenger were rescued by a pilot cutter.

(A dispatch from Montevideo on October 9 said the Borkum "slipped out" of port without clearance papers.)

Prize Safely in Port
The Admiralty said the other German freighter, the 4,458-ton Konsul Hendrik Fisser, was captured by the British and brought safely to port.

The British Houlder Line steamer Royston Grange, 5,144 tons, sank in the Atlantic but all of crew were saved.

(A Copenhagen dispatch said a 300-ton German trawler sank today after striking a mine off the Danish island of Langeland.)

The seizure of German exports as well as her contraband imports was ordered as a reprisal for German mine-laying in shipping channels without notification, it was announced.

(Germany has not said she was sowing mines in British channels, but asserted she had the right to do so if she desired.)

British naval sources expressed belief the reprisal would be more effective than in the World War

Committees for Big Buddy Club Named by Bales

A meeting of all members of the Big Buddy organization has been set for 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the city hall. All members who have been notified of previous meetings are urged to attend, as final arrangements will be discussed for the opening of the club in the vest end of the city, and the advisory council will join in the meeting.

The Big Buddy club, organized by the local post of American Legion and assisted by a group of Dixon young men, appreciates the financial support which has already been rendered by many citizens of this community. However, the amount of money which has been contributed is not sufficient to provide the necessities which are essential in maintaining the club's building and equipment. Every citizen and family in the city of Dixon should be willing to contribute to wards the support of the Big Buddy club. Cooperating Dixon can lead the country in the protection of its youth.

"Borrowing" of Dixonite's Car Jails Dixon Boy

Harold Peterson, 19, of this city, former inmate of the St. Charles boys school, was arrested this morning about 10:15 by the police following search for him which began at 6:30 last evening when S. M. Stebbings, 117 Ottawa avenue, building contractor, reported to the police that Peterson had taken his new sedan Sunday morning, to have an adjustment made at a local service station, and failed to return.

Chief Van Bibber had a description of the new car and of the driver broadcast over the state police radio system and this morning about 9 o'clock, Peterson drove the car into the driveway at the Stebbings home and left.

An hour later he was arrested by police and taken to the station for questioning. The car had been driven about 450 miles and Peterson, according to the police, stated that he had spent Sunday and last night driving about Rochelle, Rockford and Princeton. He was taken to the county jail pending the filing of charges by the owner of the car later in the day.

WAUKEGAN FIRE-BUG BUSY AGAIN

Four Fires Sunday Increase Total to 14 in Two Months

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A "firebug" who has been charged with having set 14 fires in the past two months—four of them early yesterday—was the object of an intensified search today by police and fire officials.

Mayor Mancel Talcott said citizens were aroused over the activity of the unidentified arsonist.

The firebug, who a week ago burned the First Congregational church, was unsuccessful in setting fire to the Trinity Lutheran church yesterday. Fire Chief Adolf Franke said a basement window had been forced open and leaves had been piled on the sill and ignited. The blaze, which was discovered by the Rev. Arthur E. Enquist when he arrived to open the building, had burned itself out without setting fire to the structure.

The church fire was the fourth of a series of small blazes which occurred in the early-morning hours. Only nominal damage resulted from the fires, Franke said. The first was at a motorcycle shop, the second at the National Envelope Company and the third in a restaurant supply store two blocks from the motorcycle shop.

Fire Captain E. C. Ulrey said the 14 fires caused damage estimated at more than $45,000. Damage to the Congregational church was $22,325.

Plea for Leniency in County Court Is Futile

Ralph R. Reece, local meat cutter, when arraigned before Judge Grover Gehant in County court today on a charge of drunken driving, asked for leniency and then charged that he was being "railroaded." When the court took exception to the remarks, Reece modified his statement by stating that he did not include the court, but directed the remark to state highway police who arrested him on Peoria avenue last Thursday afternoon.

State Officer Boesen preferred the information and stated that a motorist had complained of two cars having been forced off the Lincoln Highway west of Dixon before Reece was arrested. Judge Gehant imposed a fine of $100 and costs and ordered that Reece stand committed until the fine and costs are paid.

Student Union Is Accused By Dies Detective

Washington, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Major Hampden Wilson, a Dies committee investigator, termed the American Student Union today an instrument through which communism had been spread to American universities, colleges and high schools.

Wilson said a report which he submitted at a committee hearing was based on an eight-month tour of 50 colleges and universities and discussions with state and city school-board members.

The investigator, who was lent to the committee by the Veterans' Administration, also read into the record what he said were excerpts from "The Communist," a magazine of the communist party, which declared "how important" it was "to build the American Federation of Teachers."

The excerpt was read, Wilson testified, "to show the real significance attaching to the repeated assertion that the American Federation of Teachers is strongly impregnated with communism."

Wilson added that the article also named the American Student Union and the Young Communist League as "agencies to be utilized in the spread of communism in schools."

Both were taken to a Savanna hospital, DeWall being dismissed yesterday. Others in the party were Onne DeWall, Herman Meiners, and Marvin Ludwig, all of Forreston.

DIXON RESIDENCE SCENE BAD FIRE

Mrs. Celia Jones Property Damaged to Extent of About $2,000 Today

One of the worst residential fires in Dixon in months caused heavy damage to the Mrs. Celia Jones property, 303 East Second street today. The fire was discovered by a neighbor about 11:30 and the fire department was summoned. Flames, which apparently had started from sparks from a chimney, had gained considerable headway and the upper east section of the building was in flames.

Prompt work by the fire department confined the flames to that section of the house and the firemen worked until 12:45 before all of the fire was extinguished. The upper apartment was occupied by Mrs. Duane Montgomery, who was reported to have suffered heavy loss from both fire and water.

Beauty shop equipment which was stored in an upper room was completely destroyed and the lower floor occupied by Mrs. Orville Brandt was damaged badly by smoke and water. Chief Sam Cramer estimated the damage at about $2,000 which was partially covered by insurance.

State Will Be 121 Years Old Sunday Dec. 3

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Next Sunday, Dec. 3, will be the state's 121st birthday anniversary. It was in 1818 that President James Monroe signed the joint resolution of Congress that gave recognition to Illinois' statehood. The state capital was set up at Kaskaskia, a village on the Mississippi river in Randolph county.

The Illinois State Historical Society will mark the anniversary on Monday, Dec. 4, with a meeting and reception in the Centennial Building here.

Grant Foreman of Muskogee, Okla., will be the featured speaker at the historical society meeting. Foreman, an outstanding authority on the American Indian, will speak on "Illinois and Her Indian."

State Historian Paul M. Angle said Foreman's talk will have special significance for the occasion because, at the time of her entry into the union, Illinois' population was overwhelmingly Indians.

The total white population of the state in 1818 was scarcely 40,000, and few settlers lived north of Edwardsville. Chicago was important only as an army post and the northern two thirds of the state was largely wilderness.

James Fellows, who resides on the McGrail farm seven miles south of Dixon on route 26, called at The Telegraph office this morning to cancel an advertisement he had placed in the paper Saturday for a "strayed or stolen" heifer. Yesterday he and his son while hunting rabbits found the two-year-old animal—dead. She had been shot through the neck and her carcass was found in a small gully in a corn field, in which the owner had turned her loose with his other cattle a week ago today. Previous searching had failed to reveal any trace of the animal, which was worth about $50.

Four Lee Women Injured in Auto Accident Sunday

Mrs. Frank Childs, and Mrs. Fred Nowe, both past 70 years of age, and Mrs. Nels Munson and Mrs. Emory Cutts, all of Lee, were injured in an automobile wreck Sunday afternoon about 4:30 at the bridge over the Inlet drainage ditch near the Freadhoff farm, of U. S. route 30. The car, driven by Mrs. Cutts, was east bound, the ladies being enroute home after having visited relatives in Amboy.

As they approached the bridge a car preceding them suddenly turned left onto a side road and to avoid crashing into the machine, Mrs. Cutts struck the heavy guard rail of the bridge structure. Dr. H. M. Edwards of this city, who was enroute home arrived at the scene a few minutes after the crash and took the four ladies to the Amboy city hospital.

Mrs. Childs suffered a fracture of the right knee cap. Mrs. Nowe had both legs broken and Mrs. Munson's left arm was fractured. Mrs. Cutts sustained only minor cuts and bruises about the head and body. The car was badly damaged and was hauled from the scene of the crash.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aagerson, 414 West Second street, Davenport, Iowa, narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon about 2 o'clock at the foot of Lord's Hill on the Lincoln Highway west of Dixon when their car, eastbound, left the paving, during heavy traffic, swerved on the shoulder and crossed the highway, crashing into a pole on the north side of the highway, which was snapped off.

Both sustained minor cuts and injuries and their car was badly wrecked. A passing motorist took them to the Katherine Shaw Bethesda hospital where their injuries were dressed and they later returned to Davenport.

Note Result of Alleged Border Incident Sunday

Soviet Claims Four of Her Soldiers Killed by Artillery Fire

(By The Associated Press)

Moscow—Soviet soldiers call for "strictest measures" against Finland following report of border incident with 13 dead or wounded. Russia demands withdrawal of Finnish frontier troops.

Helsinki—Finland expected to refuse Russian demand for troop withdrawal.

London—King signs order for seizure of German exports; ship losses continue heavy.

Rome—Italy grants "extraordinary winter leave" to army reservists.

Moscow, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Soviet Russia, in an ultimatum-like note, today left Finland the dubious choice between withdrawing border garrisons or risking the wrath of the mighty neighbor whose demands for territorial concessions she has sternly resisted.

The note was delivered last night to the Finnish minister, Baron Aarno Yrjo-Koskinen, a few hours after a "border incident" in which, Russia charged, four Soviet soldiers were killed and nine injured by Finnish artillery.

While asserting that Russia was "not inclined to magnify this abominable act of attack," the note demanded that Finland withdraw her troops "without delay" a distance of 12 to 16 miles from the Soviet frontier on the Karelian Isthmus.

Continued troop concentration at this point, the note said, "not only creates a menace to Leningrad, but is in fact a hostile act against the U. S. S. R."

(The Finnish border on the Karelian Isthmus, which lies between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, is only about 30 miles from Leningrad.)

Observers Disagreed

Foreign observers were unable to agree on Moscow's intentions, but expressed belief that the alleged "border incident" might easily provide the "spark" which could set Russia in motion to compel Finland's compliance with territorial demands.

(In Helsinki, a Finnish government spokesman said Finland would not withdraw troops along her borders. Finnish Premier Aarno K. Cajander emphatically denied there had been any shooting by Finns on the frontier.)

Withdrawal of Finnish troops on the Karelian Isthmus, observers pointed out, would mean virtual surrender of frontier fortifications in this area.

The Russian note, which was signed by Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and handed over to a representative of the Finnish legation at a midnight conference, charged that Finnish troops stationed near the border village of Manlia at 3:45 p. m. (6:45 a. m. CST) yesterday.

Report Seven Shots

Seven cannon shots were fired in all, the note declared. It added that Soviet troops, "having strict orders not to yield at any provocation, refrained from returning the fire."

Only a few hours before the alleged incident was reported, the newspaper Pravda, Communist party organ, loosed a bitter and threatening attack upon the Finnish premier.

First reports of the alleged incident on the Karelian Isthmus were disclosed in a Tass dispatch, which said the shooting had caused "tremendous indignation among troops stationed in the area."

Finland, despite the strategically defensible terrain along the Russian border, is in a poor position to defend herself, shorn as she now is of the possibility of German backing, observers said.

Furthermore, they pointed out, Finland's natural defensive strength is at present weakened by the fact that the lakes which straddle her border area now are frozen over and would offer little obstacle to an invading army.

FARM PLATFORM IS ANNOUNCED BY NATIONAL GRANGE

14-Point Program Called One All Americans Can Support

Chicago, Nov. 27—(AP)—The National Grange announced today a 14-point "platform for agriculture" which National Master Louis J. Taber said was "one behind which every group of farmers and Americans could rally to solve the problems of agriculture."

The platform, drafted by the executive committee after the grange's recent convention in Peoria, outlined these proposals:

- 1—Give to agriculture its fair share of the national income.
- 2—Insist that the farm program be administered by farmers, with compensatory payments to tide over the emergency while farm prices are below parity; all payments to be made in the year earned, not contingent upon compliance in future years, and not to be used as a means toward compulsory crop control.
- 3—Speed national recovery by taking the shackles off business, by increasing employment and reducing the relief burden.
- 4—Recognize as fundamental the right of the American farmer to the American market up to the limit of his ability to supply it.
- 5—Close the doors to imports of foreign farm products which are injurious to American agriculture, and which help to reduce its purchasing power, by (a) divorcing foreign trade from politics; (b) creation of a non-partisan board responsible to Congress, and representing producing and consuming interests, with powers to regulate imports; (c) terminate reciprocal trade agreements now in force which are injurious to agriculture.

6—Keep America out of foreign wars by (a) building and maintaining adequate national defense; (b) endeavoring to promote international peace; (c) conscripting wealth and industry as well as man-power in time of war; (d) remaining free from entangling foreign alliances; (e) recognizing that war may bring dictatorial powers of government which may mean the end of democracy and individual liberty.

7—Develop a sound rural credit program by (a) establishing the farm credit administration as an independent agency under supervision of a bi-partisan board; (b) maintaining and extending the co-operative features of farm credit; (c) maintaining latest interest rates consistent with agriculture's needs and sound business.

8—Recognize that adequate transportation facilities are indispensable to the welfare of the nation. Railroad regulation should be liberalized, but uniform regulation of all types of carriers would destroy competition and the economies afforded by each type.

9—Base taxation on benefits received and ability to pay, and insist upon economy and efficiency in all branches of government.

10—Develop better markets for farm products by (a) encouraging sound cooperative marketing; (b) removing unnecessary trade barriers between states; (c) opposing discriminatory and punitive taxation on any form of distribution; (d) research to find new crops and new uses for farm products.

11—Maintain the family-sized farm as the standard of American agriculture and discourage large-sized corporation farming.

12—Continue soil conservation as a part of a permanent program for better use of land, but not as a means of crop control.

13—Promote a better and more satisfactory rural life through development of educational facilities, good roads and rural electrification.

14—Foster the American spirit of self-help in solving our problems; encourage cooperation between farmers and farm organizations; urge understanding, cooperation and good-will between agriculture, labor and industry for mutual welfare and for the best interests of the nation.

Members of the grange's committee charged with carrying the program forward were Chairman Fred J. Freestone, Interlaken, N. Y.; Eugene A. Eckert, Mascoutah, Ill.; and Ray W. Gill, Portland, Ore.

M., Tuesday, Miss Eve Blacka (above), of the "Adopted" Sisters, who are conducting revival services at "The Chapel," Church of the Nazarene, 406 Franklin St., Oregon, will tell the story of her very unusual conversion and call to the ministry. Analysis-- next few months. From November to March there are constant and heavy fogs over the English Channel and the North Sea. The fogs frequently get so bad that visibility is only a few feet. Air pilots have to do a great deal of "blind-flying." Minelaying from seaplanes will not be easy.

It is interesting and important to note that the week-end saw what appears to have been the first passed air attack of the war in the western theatre when Germans went after British warships in the North Sea. The nazis claimed four direct hits on warships—which the British denied.

The point is, of course, that the Germans seem to be starting to supplement their U-boat and mine campaign with assaults on the blockade from the air. The purpose naturally is two-fold—to try to break the blockade before the blockade breaks Germany, and to try to strangle England out by cutting off the sea-borne supplies upon which she is dependent.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech to the empire last night seemed, as it came over the air, to have the firm tones which bore out his expression of "complete confidence in our ultimate victory." I know Mr. Chamberlain and worked about him in England for a good many years, and I believe he meant what he said.

Among the characteristics of "the man with the umbrella" are honesty, courage and stubbornness. When he says things are going well for the allies he believes that to be true. He might withhold his view if he were fearful, but unless those who think they know him well have him summed up all wrong, he couldn't tell a lie.

Also when he says the allies are going to clean up nazidom, he definitely means that, too. It takes a good deal to make Mr. Chamberlain really angry, but once he gets heated up it requires a lot to smooth him down.

A good many people got the idea that because Chamberlain pursued his appeasement policy so vigorously, he was soft. Some folk still think he was indeed too soft in his dealings with Herr Hitler, but they have no doubt that he means business now. Don't forget I told you the prime minister is stubborn and courageous.

Routes for New American Liners Most Uncertain

(By The Associated Press)

Washington, Nov. 27 — Unless the war ends, or Congress has another change of mind, the United States is going to wind up with a lot of fine new ships to put into the "cruises to nowhere" trade.

First will be the S. S. America, a luxury liner with a price tag of $15,750,000 being built at Newport News for the North Atlantic trade. It would be a pretty big ship to put into the vacation trade in the Caribbean and would not be very well adapted to ferry-boat service.

At varying intervals during the next two years, 140 other ships will go sliding down the ways for their first taste of salt water. Fifteen are combination freight and passenger ships. The rest are freighters.

Passenger vessels, even a whopper like the America, might make a part of their expenses hauling week-end vacationers to Bermuda, or on holiday cruises to nowhere out of New York, but ships don't haul freight around in the Atlantic just to give it an odor of Scotch and a dash of fresh air.

Thirty-nine of the new ships which have been ordered already have been assigned to North Atlantic trade routes. Others may be later. Almost a fifth of the ships of the American merchant marine were in the North Atlantic trade when congress closed those routes with the new neutrality law.

Future Is Guesswork

What will happen to them is largely a matter of guesswork. A few of the more optimistic maritime authorities are hoping for a sudden end to the war which will let them go into service along the old routes. If not, it is likely that some vessels will be shifted into trade lines in other parts of the world from which European ships are being withdrawn.

If the war continues, congress may find it necessary to go over the merchant marine law again and decide what changes it wants to make, or whether it wants to withdraw from the shipping business altogether.

Shipping concerns do not develop trade routes overnight. It takes years to train personnel and establish the necessary shore agencies to round up the freight needed to keep ships going on schedule. Nor can a service be interrupted in an emergency and picked up again, casually, after the emergency is over.

Learned Costly Lesson

Three-fourths of the money in American merchant ships at the time the present building program was begun was put up by the government. And it is footing most of the bills for the new ships. The situation grew out of a World War experience.

In 1914, the United States was doing four billion dollars of trade yearly with foreign nations. But its merchant fleet was only about half of what it had been when the Civil war started half a century before. Ships of other nations were hauling 90 per cent of America's trade.

The World War called foreign ships home. Foreign freight cluttered American waterfronts, filled warehouses, left lines of freight cars stretching, literally, miles inland. Exports dropped more than $300,000,000 that year in spite of war orders.

Congress went into a shipbuilding fever. Up to 1914, the United States had given less than $45,000,000 to shipping lines, most of it paid for actual mail-carrying. Since then, it has spent over $3,500,000,000 on commercial shipping, for building, operation and operation subsidies. That figure is wholly aside from the hundreds of millions which would be spent under the present building and operating subsidy law.

WPA DIRECTOR DIES

Chicago, Nov. 27—(AP)—Harold K. Seltzer, 40, Chicago director of the WPA since 1936, died yesterday from a brain tumor. He came here from a post as program director of the Tulsa, Okla., Y. M. C. A. to work as a field man for the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

He later became assistant director of WPA under Major A. R. Lord and when the latter was named assistant state director, succeeded to the post of Chicago director. Seltzer, at the peak of WPA activity, had 124,000 men under his direction. The present rolls carry 61,000.

Most insurance is written to protect women, yet many women—uninformed, we think—protest the protection their husbands, fathers and sons would provide. Why? Our belief, based on thousands of incidents, is that women do not always understand the law of averages. Putting it simply—do your cakes always come out of the oven exactly the same? CALIFORNIA TO TRY NEW MEANS TO HELP NEEDY

State Has Launched Production-for-Use Set-Up as Experiment

Los Angeles, Nov. 27—(AP)—California, unwilling host to thousands of dust-bowl refugees and other victims of the depression, is preparing to set them up in business for themselves.

Confronted with a mounting bill for unemployment relief which has soared from $39,000,000 in 1933 to $123,000,000 during the last fiscal year, the state has launched a production-for-use program which its sponsors believe eventually will provide gainful jobs for many of its 700,000 unemployed.

This is how it will work: John Doe, jobless baker on the relief rolls, now receives a monthly check for about $40. Out of that he has to pay his rent and his fuel, light and water bills and buy his food and clothing.

Under the production-for-use program, Doe will be given a job in one of the state-sponsored production units and taken off the relief rolls. Instead of his relief check he will be paid an equivalent amount with something additional, dependent upon the number of hours he works each month.

State to Run Stores

Part of his check will be payable in cash and the balance—about a fourth—will be good at one of the state's consumer co-operatives. There Doe and his wife can make their selection from some 2,000 items of food, clothing and other necessities.

In addition to the output of Doe's production project and others like it, the consumers' store will carry articles bought through the state's wholesale control. Besides providing goods for the consumer co-operatives, the wholesale control will furnish raw materials for the production units and finance the entire operation from state funds.

Head of the production-for-use program is Frank P. O'Brien, recently named director of the division of works and re-employment of the state relief administration.

Because the majority of the state's unemployed are in southern California, mostly in Los Angeles county, the production-for-use program is to be inaugurated here.

As a nucleus, there are 38 co-operatives in this area, most of them receiving state assistance. They will be encouraged to join the program.

Their products, mostly agricultural, include fruits and vegetables, olives, nuts, syrups, cereals, macaroni and spaghetti, eggs, milk and pork, as well as baked goods, shoes and clothing. At San Pedro and Monterey are cooperative fisheries.

Previously-expressed opposition to the program, on the part of business interests which now make a profit on the sale of necessities to the unemployed, is veering toward a favorable attitude, the director declared.

"They are coming to see that such a program will tend to discourage movements like the ham-and-eggs pension scheme.

"If we can relieve that situation in whole or in part, we feel we shall have made a real contribution toward the solution of the unemployment problem."

CHANGES HIS MIND

Juneau, Alaska—(AP)—Mervin (Buster) Anderson, the territory's "luckiest man," once vowed no woman would get his money.

Winner of three big Alaska guessing contests, one of them the Nenana ice pool two years ago which netted him $75,000, Anderson, a Fairbanks bus driver, said he had no thought of marriage.

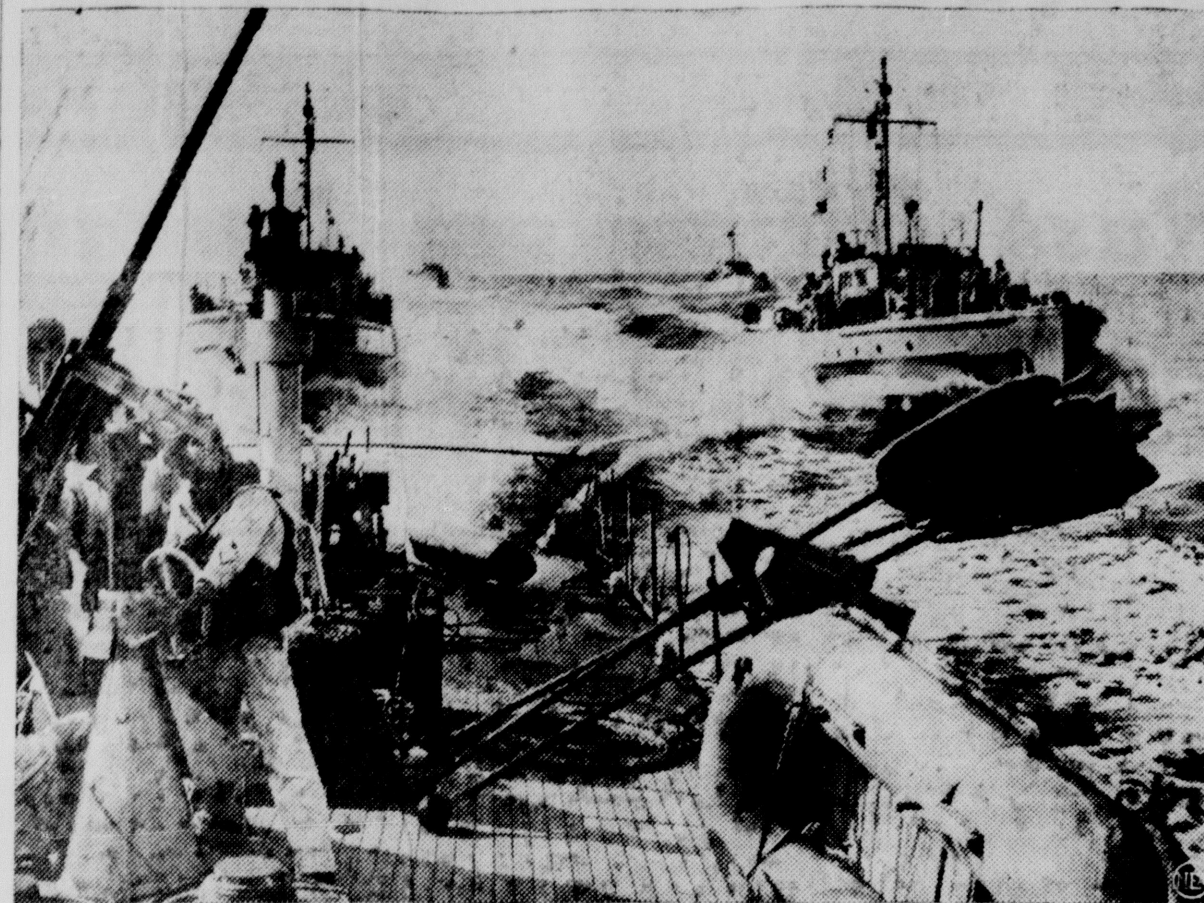

This fall, at Circle Springs, he remarried his first wife.

German Sweepers Hunt Mines in War at Sea

As war on the sea rages with mines taking an ever-increasing toll of allied and neutral ships, this fleet of German mine sweepers goes out to seek, rather than to sow, the TNT bulbs. Armed with anti-aircraft guns, they operate to make waters safe for Nazi warships.

People's Column

Editor, Telegraph:

The London Bobby carries no gun. Yet Britain's murder rate is but a fraction of ours whose police go heavily armed.

There is possibly a eugenical reason for this. Scientists now assert perhaps nearly one-half our crime has a base in inheritance. England, over many decades, eliminated her criminal strains by hanging offenders. Italian scientists have done much research upon the inheritance of criminal tendencies. Dr. Monacchi reminds us: "When in 1871 Lombroso found in the cranium of the notorious bandit Villola an occipital depression usually found in the anthropoid apes in place of the occipital crest found in man, much that is known as criminal anthropology and biology was born."

This discovery, made over sixty years ago, dominates all of the more important efforts of the present day Italian criminologists toward the understanding of criminal behavior.

If this be true, can we perhaps reduce our crushing taxes for crime by awakening wider public interest in the sterilization of criminals? Germany has hundreds of eugenic courts, cautiously, scientifically trying her social inadequates as to their right to become parents. Eight other North-western European nations have similar laws.

Respectfully,

THE ZONING ORDINANCE

The zoning ordinance seems to be bordering on the ridiculous. Commissioner Tyler, who sponsored this ordinance and urged its passage, IS THE FIRST ONE to violate or cause to be violated, the provisions thereof.

What can you expect of the citizens, when their own officials violate the ordinances they pass?

Respectfully submitted,
R. A. Rodesch.

Strange Illness is Fatal to Boy Scout

Indianapolis, Nov. 27—(AP)—An illness which caused him to lie on the fringe of consciousness for 105 days ended in death for 13-year-old James Lee Frye, Indianapolis Boy Scout and school patrolman. Young Frye died Saturday night of a disease which physicians had not diagnosed fully.

Last Aug. 4, his last day in Scout camp, James Lee awoke with a splitting headache. He was taken home and then, on Aug. 13, to a hospital.

That same day he lapsed into a semi-conscious condition. Dr. Charles W. Myers, superintendent of City hospital, said his ailment was similar to encephalitis lethargica—sleeping sickness.

James Lee did not recognize his parents when they came to see him. Nurses fed him through a tube and by injections into his blood vessels, but he grew weaker gradually.

As it is the aim and purpose of the Big Buddy club of Dixon to prevent the development of young criminals, the members of the club feel confident that every citizen in Dixon will make some contribution towards the success of this movement.

Last year the work was confined to the southwest part of Dixon. The parents and teachers in other parts of town are now asking the club to branch out to their neighborhoods. This club feels that this can be accomplished if everyone does one's part in assisting the organization.

Statues May Be Theme for Talk Coming Congress

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Chief Justice John Marshall—sometimes called the father of the Supreme Court—is about to come in out of the cold.

For years his bronze statue has stood at the back of the Capitol, off the beaten track of the tourist and sightseer. Lately it has been growing green with age.

Patriots in the halls of Congress, noticing that there was no statue of George Washington on the Capitol, started a movement to move Marshall and to move in Washington.

But where, asked local artists and admirers of Marshall, would the chief justice go?

Rep. Brewster (R-Me.) replied with a bill to move Marshall to the new Supreme Court.

The court asked Justice Stone to investigate. He went over, looked at the bronze and presented a plan which calls for Marshall to go inside the court building.

Art-lovers are now asking, what about the new Washington?

Once before the Capitol had an outside statue of the father of the country at the Capitol and, although it was moved, it's still in the city.

The Smithsonian institution has it stuck away in a corner 50 feet to the port-side of a lot of printing presses. That's where it landed after being banished from the Capitol.

Will this Washington be moved back?

If it is, it may start art controversy the like of which recent Congresses haven't seen. The trouble with the banished Washington is that the father of the country doesn't have a shirt on.

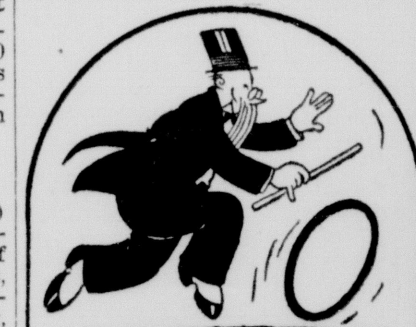

Made in Italy, the statue is along Roman lines. Washington has on a toga, and the sculptor didn't bother to make it hide his chest.

'Missing' Plane Lands Near Lincoln Sunday

Lincoln, Ill., Nov. 27—(AP)—A private airplane piloted by Fred Hoffman, Jr., of Brooklyn, landed in a pasture near here yesterday completing a flight from Newark, N. J., after being reported missing Saturday between Pittsburgh and Vandalia, Ohio.

Hoffman, who was accompanied by his wife, their three-year-old son and Dean Wrth of Lincoln, said he had landed Saturday at Columbus because of cylinder trouble and then had flown to Dayton.

The plane had stopped Thursday in Pittsburgh but filed no flight record and nothing further was heard from it until Saturday night when it was located in Vandalia. Hoffman landed his plane on the farm of Wrth's father, near Cornland, Ill.

CLUBWOMEN HEAR THREE OUT OF TOWN SPEAKERS AT THEIR ONE-DAY INSTITUTE MEETING

An institute program, bulging with inspiration, humor, and interesting information awaited members of the Dixon Woman's club on Saturday at St. Luke's Episcopal church.

During the day, the clubwomen learned that the proper time to plant gourds is "when the oak leaves are just the size of a squirrel's ears," were shown how to concoct a grape cluster salad, and heard several practical rules to follow to enjoy "top notch living." Dr. W. F. Tyler, Prophetstown physician and gourd hobbyist; Miss Ruth Christopherson, assistant director in the home economics department of the Kraft Phenix cheese corporation, and Mrs. H. L. Heer, magazine chairman of the Thirtieth District Federation were the speakers, and provided one of the outstanding programs of the club year.

Sixty members turned out for the morning session, which was opened at 11 o'clock, with Mrs. Earl Auman, the club president, presiding. Mrs. Howard Edwards was at the piano for the opening song, "The Star Spangled Banner," led by Mrs. E. V. Mellett.

Dr. Tyler was the first guest speaker to address the group. He illustrated his lecture with a colorful display of gourds and patio strings, which attracted numerous purchasers during the day.

Known For Centuries
Gourds, Dr. Tyler told his listeners, have been known, used and cultivated since the dawn of history. They were found in King Tut's tomb, he said, and prior to the '90s, were utilized as dippers, cups, and bowls.

He compared characteristics of the hard-shelled and ornamental varieties, classifying the former type as a monotonous tan color, larger in size than the smaller, more colorful variety. Hard-shelled gourds, the audience learned, bloom at night, and are pollinated by moths and night insects.

Dr. Tyler, who has obtained seeds for his prize-winning collection from Africa, China, Europe, South America, and the British Isles, said he has grown from 37 to 87 gourds on one vine, harvesting a crop of between 4,000 and 5,000 a year ago. He does not advocate use of shellac, preferring, instead, either a wax or natural finish. Different colors, he has found, can be developed on the same vine, as the ornamental plant crosses readily, and may be molded in any shape by metal casts.

"Dish Rag" Variety
In his display were included sugar trough, lantern, spoon, crown of thorns, "dish rag," and many other novel varieties. A dish cloth, which, the speaker guaranteed, "never becomes sour," may be fashioned from the spongy pulp within the "dish rag" gourd.

Dr. Tyler's talk was followed by luncheon, served at long tables in the form of a hollow rectangle, beautifully appointed for the harvest season with autumn leaves, evergreen, fruits, gourds, and popcorn. Mrs. Robert Warner, Mrs. W. H. Coppins, and Miss Lucia W. Dement planned the artistic motif.

Eighty-four members and 16 guests attended the afternoon program, which was opened with group singing, led by the district

After the ceremony, the couple left on a brief wedding trip. After Jan. 1, they will be at home on a farm near Ohio in Bureau county. The bride has been employed at Woolworth's.

Evelyn Schumacher Plans Wedding for Early December

News that Miss Evelyn Schumacher, youngest daughter of the Herbert J. Schumachers of 209 East McKinney street, has set Saturday, Dec. 9, as the day for her marriage to William Smith of Grand Detour, awaited a dozen or more friends of the bride-to-be, who were invited to the Schumacher home Saturday evening for an informal announcement party.

The guests learned of the approaching nuptial date during the serving of a 7 o'clock dessert course. Tiny cards concealed in a center bouquet of yellow roses and white chrysanthemums, attached to streamers leading to gift packages at each cover told the news in the following message: "Bill and Evelyn, Saturday, Dec. 9." Blue tapers in crystal holders lighted the party table.

After the sweet course, the group spent the remainder of the evening, hemming and embroidering tea towels for the new home.

Included on Miss Schumacher's guest list were Mesdames Corbus Hoffman, Lawrence Morris, Ralph Gonneman, and the Misses Grace Crawford, Agatha Tosney, Josephine May, Loyola Fitzpatrick, Margaret Sproul, Sylvia Carey, Olive Boos, Naomi Wolf, and Mrs. Schumacher and daughter Virginia, mother and sister of Mr. Smith's fiancée.

First of the pre-nuptial courtesies complimenting Miss Schumacher is being arranged by Miss Tosney, Miss Wolf and Miss Carey for Thursday evening, Mrs. Lawrence Morris has asked for the following evening, and on Thursday evening, Dec. 7, Miss Fitzpatrick and Miss Crawford will be entertaining for the bride-elect.

Both Miss Schumacher and her fiancée were graduated from Dixon high school with the class of '34. She is employed at the Illinois Northern Utilities company, and he is with the Reynolds Wire company.

CELEBRATES THIRD YEAR

Jerre Lee Shaver, son of the Glenn R. Shavers of 212 Tenth street celebrated his third birthday anniversary on Saturday at an afternoon party arranged by his mother.

Before the birthday lunch was served, the party-goers watched Jerre Lee unwrap his gift packages. White, yellow and green icing decorated the three-tier birthday cake. Apples and toy horns were favors.

Guests included Joyce Luise Walker, Judy Rintoul, Billy Netz, Frank Erwin Cullins, Judy Jordan, Rex Cason, Ann Chapman, Judy Burdge, Joanne Ryan, Mary Ellen Ventler, Delores Newman, Martha Sue Hopkins, Elsie Burdge, Martha Rae Wilson, Frances and Lorene May, Evelyn Graf, Mrs. Elmer Netz, Mrs. Roy Netz, Mrs. Ray Shaver, and the children's mothers.

BRIDE-ELECT IS COMPLIMENTED AT BREAKFAST PARTY

When the Misses Betty Nichols and Anna Jean Crabtree greeted their bride club at breakfast Sunday morning, a personal shower awaited their honoree, Miss Bette Merriman. Miss Merriman's marriage to Paul Potts is to be an event of early January.

Circling the party table for this pre-nuptial courtesy were Mrs. O. V. Melvin of Sterling, Mrs. Louis Salzman, Mrs. Raymond Toot, and the Misses Catheryn Buchner, Emily Swan, Jean Bovey, Barbara Campbell, Betty Haines, Leone Kreim, Miss Merriman and the hostesses.

STERLING CORPS ENTERTAINS

Members of the Sterling Woman's Relief corps were reception hostesses in the Sterling G. A. R. hall Saturday afternoon, complimenting Mrs. Pearl Sitter, the district president, Mrs. Louise Wallis of Walnut, senior vice president, and Mrs. Winnie Kohl of Rock Falls, junior vice president. The Walnut and Rock Falls corps were included on the guest list.

The reception was followed by an entertaining program. Mrs. Wright of Walnut responded to a toast to her corps. Gifts were presented to the three special guests by Mrs. Cora Martin, president of the hostess corps.

Archer Wagner and his daughter of Ashton were Dixon visitors today.

VIOLINIST TO OPEN FREEPORT CONCERT SERIES

The opening concert of the 1939-40 season, sponsored by the Freeport Co-operative Community Concert association, will be given at Consistory auditorium in Freeport on Wednesday evening, Dec. 13, with Joseph Knitzer, violinist, as soloist. Reciprocity arrangements with the Freeport association will permit members of the Dixon Concert League to attend the concert, free of charge.

The 26-year-old American musician studied for six years with Leopold Auer. He made his debut at the age of 14 as a soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra under the direction of Walter Damrosch, and was the youngest soloist who had ever appeared with the orchestra.

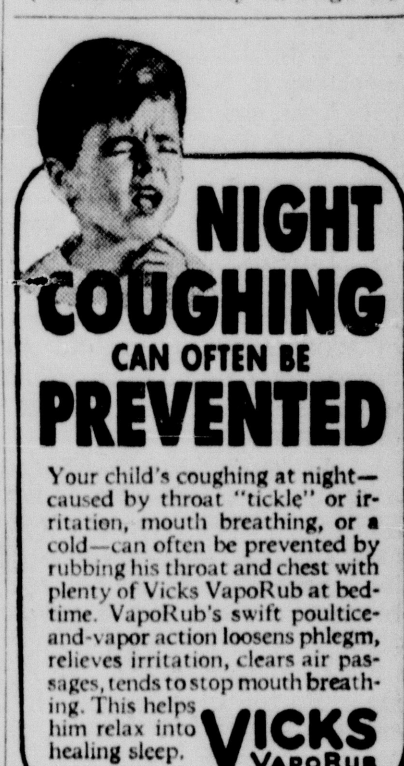

In 1935, he was engaged by Stokowski to play the Mozart A Major Concerto, and had the distinction of being the only violinist, with the exception of Fritz Kreisler, to appear under Stokowski's baton that season.

During October, he was guest soloist, together with Joseph Schuster, 'cellist, appearing with the Harrisburg, Pa. Symphony, opening its 1939 season. This is his fifth concert season.

THURSDAY CLUB

Members of the Thursday Reading circle are planning a Guest Night meeting for 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. L. V. Miller.

NIGHT COUGHING CAN OFTEN BE PREVENTED

Your child's coughing at night—caused by throat "tickles" or irritation, mouth breathing, or a cold—can often be prevented by rubbing his throat and chest with plenty of Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. VapoRub's swift poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves irritation, clears air passages, tends to stop mouth breathing. This helps him relax into healing sleep.

GEORGE WASHINGTON ROCK:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

GLENN FOR U. S. SENATOR

The Republicans of Illinois have an excellent opportunity to regain one of the two U. S. Senate seats next year if they nominate Otis F. Glenn, former United States Senator from this state and a candidate who has a splendid record to recommend him.

When Mr. Glenn represented Illinois in the United States Senate during the four years from 1929 to 1933 he became a national figure because of his sound statesmanship, his force in discussions and debate on the Senate floor and his leadership in Washington. Few members of the United States Senate have achieved such high distinction in so short a space of time.

With Illinois regarded as a pivotal state in the 1940 elections it is especially important that the Republicans, in the April primary election, nominate a fine and a powerful ticket. A long step in that direction will be taken by naming Otis F. Glenn for U. S. Senator.

SIMPLER HOMES AND LOWER BUILDING COSTS

Low-income families who are getting a little tired of folding beds and cupboard kitchens can take heart from the fact that the average home built during the first six months of 1939 cost less than did the average home built during the preceding three years. This does not mean building costs were down, but rather that people were building less elaborate houses.

According to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the average cost between January and July of this year was $3,611; in 1936 the average was $4,044. These figures represent the bare cost of the building. They do not include land, land improvements, profits and commissions, which will bring the cost to the purchaser to something better than $5,000.

This figure is still too high. The Home Loan Bank Board says it's too high, and I. N. Tate, vice president of the Weyerhaeuser Sales Company, St. Paul, Minn., agrees with the board. Mr. Tate declares that about 75 per cent of all the homes being built retail for more than $5,000—and only 25 per cent of the wage-earners in the country can afford to buy a home at this price.

The U. S. attorney general's office is currently investigating high building costs. It is possible that this campaign will result in price moderations. But even if every abuse is eliminated, the result will not be the complete answer to the building enigma—it will be merely a step toward bringing prices within the $2,000-$4,000 range, which most workers can afford.

The rest of the problems will have to be solved by the people who build houses and the people who live in them. The basic prices of materials will not be reduced very much; and the price of labor can scarcely be expected to decline. But if the home owner were willing to live in the kind of house his income can stand instead of feeling that he must have a house better than the Joneses', next door and the Smiths', across the street, he would be much better off.

The four Hoess brothers in Hammond, Ind., tried out that idea, and it worked. The brothers had a lot of idle land on their hands, so they cut it up into acre lots and built identical houses. Each house sold for $2,600—complete with the land. The purchaser had to make some of the improvements, but he had his home.

This is the answer that the construction conferees in Washington suggested. Some builders were optimistic enough to predict that the cost of homes will be reduced by 50 per cent if buyers aren't too fussy about having something "different" and if they don't ask for too many frills in the design.

It's pretty well established that mass production cuts down costs. Each house will cost less and can be more quickly erected if the builder can use the same pattern throughout his project.

Perhaps if potential home owners get together with builders they will be able to afford to buy homes—and still have enough money left over to eat regularly.

CAPONE IS BACK AGAIN

Al Capone steps back into a world that must look as strange to him as his own glittering era of big business bootlegging looks fantastic to us. He went into prison 7½ years ago a swaggering bully; he comes out a whimpering psychopathic case.

The scar-faced, gun-toting, blustering Capone once personified the more sordid side of the frenzied twenties; today he is a left-over fragment of an age we would just as soon forget. There are reports that the ex-king of Chicago's underworld is fearful of his life and that the federal agents who once hounded him as a prize will now stay close at hand to protect him from possible underworld justice.

Capone was part of hangover America had from the last war. He steps back into a country that is watching another war and has no possible use for his kind. Capone once had almost a social standing in an era of jumbled moral codes. Now he rubs his eyes in the sunlight of a society that knows rackets and racketeers for what they are and is determined to stamp them out.

STARVING THE NAZIS

The allies appear to be sitting around hopefully, waiting either for Germany to do something or to holler "uncle." If Germany does nothing and waits long enough, the allies are quite certain Hitler will have to cash in his chips, or let his people starve to death.

But look at the case of China. Since July, 1937, the Chinese have suffered about 2,000,000 casualties in resisting Japanese invasion, according to Lieut. Gen. Wen Ying Hsing, commander of China's Revenue Guards. China has been virtually cut off from outside economic aid. Yet, China hangs on grimly, her leaders confident that she will win in the end through guerrilla warfare.

Maybe most of the conditions surrounding China can't be compared to those in Germany. But the fact remains that the Chinese have been on an informal ration-card system for more than two years—and they're far from being a defeated people, at the end of their rope. If the allies are counting strongly on their economic blockade, they'd better keep an ace in the hole.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON
(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, Nov. 27—First bits of worthwhile evidence that Mr. Roosevelt may have reached a decision about the third term have now reached the outer-upper stratum here.

A man who goes frequently to the White House has discovered the personnel there—employees who must make provision for their future livelihood in case FDR goes out—are making provisions. The President has not told them what he is going to do. Their minds have been made up on an accumulation of little things they have seen and heard. They consider these sufficiently conclusive to start angling for future jobs.

An outside legal adviser of the President who is far closer to him than government officials has told his intimate friends the President has definitely decided within the past few days to refuse re-election, and will issue a statement, probably in January.

This evidence will not resolve the "he-will-he-won't" guessing contest. On this issue, sound prognosticators will prefer to wait until they see the exact wording of the President's renunciation. Obviously he cannot go after the nomination. It must come to him. Therefore even what he says may not mean as much as he conclusively he says it.

Whether or not in this connection, the Paul McNutt movement is being more openly promoted by those who generally act here only under official guidance. The Hoosier is being written up and talked up faster and louder by some of the government mouthpieces. National Chairman Jim Farley's friends have heard, however, that the McNutt movement is not going over as astoundingly well out in the country—although Mr. Farley's evidence in this instance would hardly be called impartial.

But the McNutt movement is clearly not proof of the President's intentions either. If delegates are to be rounded up for a third nomination, they must be uninstructed (a movement along this line was apparent last summer) or be instructed for some other candidate who will withdraw in Mr. Roosevelt's favor. (Mr. McNutt already has characterized his candidacy as the withdrawing kind.)

One of Attorney General Murphy's officials has bet $1 with a friend that Murphy—unanimous choice of officialdom and the press for the Supreme Court vacancy—will not get it.

Murphy's primary idea in life is to return to Michigan politics and erase his defeat for governor. He told some Detroiters he did not wish to "enter a cloister" on the bench: is reported considering races for the vice presidency, governor or senator. It is likewise true his experience in trial law is overwhelmingly surpassed by his political experience. These considerations would not necessarily be controlling in view of his outstanding judicial character, unless Mr. Roosevelt should suddenly decide to perform another dramatic feat with the court.

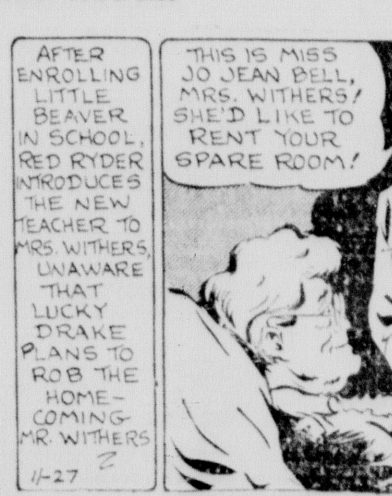

In that case, however, the President may do what he once before considered—appoint the first woman to the Supreme bench, Circuit Judge Florence Allen of Cleveland.

War department is drafting a bill to put another tooth in the foreign policy shipping law. It will propose to the next Congress that Mr. Roosevelt be given full control over exports of a long list of critical war materials by export licensing. Both Acting Navy Secretary Charles Edison and Assistant War Secretary Louis Johnson will advocate the measure as a national defense necessity.

A list of 75 materials they want to consider was originally drawn up, but this is being cut to 30. New definitions of the 30 are such, however, that they will probably cover the original 75 after the condensation. Foremost on the list are antimony, chromium, ferro-radium, manganese, quicksilver, quinoline, rubber, silk, tin and tungsten. Exporters will shriek.

Administration may seek directly to amend the ship law this coming session, but if it does not,

RED RYDER

The Creeping Mon

by Frances Shelley Wees

YESTERDAY: The same rainy night, Gordon Deane is severely wounded, and the Forresters gassed. Duncan is arrested.

Chapter 44

The Case Against Duncan
By the time Michael was feeling almost well the doctor was able to say positively that Gordon would live—live, and quite possibly be himself again within a month or two. The interest fraction of a chance the blow had failed to be fatal. Gordon was not yet conscious, and the doctor would not in any event allow him to be questioned for many days.

Later that day Michael, with his father and the Commissioner, were back at the Forrester house. Tuck and Bunny were still in bed at the Deane's.

The District Attorney was very angry. There was a spot of brilliant red in either cheek, and his shaggy brows were bent in such a ferocious frown that his eyes never became visible.

"The devil," he was saying over and over to himself. "The devil." "Donovan's swearing mad," the Commissioner said. "He didn't seem to mind you, Michael, and the three women being at the point of death. But he's ready to strangle with his own hands the man who hit a defenseless and innocent lad."

Michael smiled wryly. "Gordon isn't quite as defenseless and innocent as he appears," he replied. "Apparently our murderer's been keeping watch for me." "Michael," his father broke in brusquely, "the girls are safe at the Deane's?"

"They couldn't be safer, Dad." "No. Perhaps not. But I thought," he puffed at his pipe, "Michael, I'm all completely rattle-dazzled. You told me that stuff about the vivisection and you hinted at a man... a man who had a better opportunity to put the poison in the meat that came here intended for us? I tell you, gentlemen, the whole business is a very carefully planned and carried out bit of villainy."

He held up his hand as his father started to interrupt. "Just a minute," he said. "You are going to say that I should have traced the strange stuff that killed the dog and cat by now. I have. It's a gaseous poison which was made by Dr. Murchison and Dr. Murchison only, in the process of some of his experiments, and the remainder of the supply stands at the present moment in a blue glass bottle in his own cabinet."

John Forrester broke in. "Are you trying to palm that rignarole off on us as reasonable?" he demanded indignantly. "Dad, do you think it's nice to doubt your own son's word? Michael asked him, his eyes twinkling. "Humph! Your first seconds and thirds! Your plausible 'could have' and 'might have' been?"

"Humph!" He gesticulated angrily with the end of his pipe. "A few questions, my son. Maybe you'll answer them, and maybe you won't. First—where is Murchison? Second—why didn't Duncan mean he'd kill Jared Deane if he didn't stop monkeying with the woman? Any decent boy would talk like that, though he shouldn't have talked so loudly. Third—why the devil don't you find out where the woman was the night her husband was killed, instead of hinting that she might have been with Duncan? Fourth—you can't tell me the lad intended to poison the girl, even if he did think you'd be better dead with his poisoned meat. Indeed! Fifth—why couldn't the Lissey woman have passed on some of her slanderous tales to Duncan the afternoon she died, and told him it was time he did something about his brother's death, for instance? Why? It's what she would have done. And sixth—my son, how did you happen to find him with the poison on his hand with her before he knew that she was going to blow up and threaten him with something? Answer me that?"

"Dad," Michael said critically. "I can see now why you were a good defense lawyer. You are positively eloquent, man, although you do get a bit mixed. However," he paused, "well, in case anybody happens to ask, you'd at least have a case sufficient to issue the warrant, wouldn't you?"

"No," said John Forrester decidedly. "There was a rap at the door. Michael jumped to open it. Donovan stood on the threshold with a small package in his hand. He said nothing. Michael took the parcel."

"Here's your proof," he said. "Donovan, tell him where you found the contents of the parcel."

"It came from the drawer of Duncan Murchison's dresser, sir," Michael told the father. "He took the little gray box back, and slid it open. 'Ten of the tablets of the poison that killed Miss Lissey. How about a sign that Michael Donovan at a sign from Michael stepped out onto the sun porch and brought in Higgins, whose knees were visibly shaking.'"

"Higgins gulped. 'Swelp me, Mr. Forrester, I was 'ome in bed.' 'Can you prove that?' 'That I can, sir. I rooms with one of the under-gardeners, sir.' 'Were you rooming with him on the night of the murder?' 'Higgins' little eyes darted to his face, and fell. 'You mean Miss Lissey's murder, Mr. Forrester?'"

"You mean—Professor Murchison's murder, sir?" "Yes, sir. I was. But it's no use, he ain't got brains enough to remember back that far." There was despair in his tones.

"It looks very bad for you, Higgins."

"The narrow shoulders drooped. Michael leaned forward. 'How did you know the necklace was hidden here on the campus?' he asked."

"Didn't know nothink about it." "Oh, piffle. Come clean. You were hunting for it, and you expected to get several thousand dollars—five thousand preferably—reward for finding it. And you pinched the key to the study, and gave it to Gordon, who was in cahoots with you."

"Higgins swallowed. 'I 'eard the Professor quarrelin' with his wife, and 'e told 'er as 'ow 'e'd 'idden the necklace where she'd never lay 'ands on it. 'That was—that was the day 'e disappeared like. I figured as 'ow I might as well 'ave a look for it as anybody else. 'Er and that Mr. Deane dug up 'alf me flower beds diggin' for it. A blind man would 'a known what was up.'"

"You seem to have overheard a number of important things. Higgins, do you know where Professor Murchison's body is?"

The question destroyed the little poise the gardener had regained. He stared at Michael with terrified eyes.

"No sir, I ain't got no idea, sir."

Higgins went out and Michael laughed lightly.

BIG GAME PARTICIPANTS

Both Gerald Ankeny of Iowa and Don Miller of Wisconsin saw action (though brief) in the closing games of the respective schools Saturday afternoon. Both are expected to return to school next season and more will be heard from the two who are to be congratulated on their crash into the big time.

MONDAY'S WASH

In the windup of guest predictions for Saturday's games Fred Hoffman left standing the kings of the forecasts as he scored a 706 percentage and Willard Jones and Bob Dean retained the share in the season's top honors, each with percentages of .800. Three tie games (Oregon State-U. C. L. A.; Colgate-Columbia and Iowa-Northwestern) left Hoffman's percentage figured on 12 right and five wrong. The games which tripped up the last of the eight guest writers were: Baylor-Southern Methodist; Harvard-Yale; Michigan-Ohio State; Pitt-Penn State; and Nebraska-Oklahoma.

WALDORF AT FREEPORT

Coach Lynn O. Waldorf of Northwestern will be the speaker at the father and son sportsmanship banquet at Freeport on Friday evening, Dec. 15.

DOWN AMONG 'EM

William J. Cahill, Dixon's veteran electrical contractor, witnessed the Southern California-Notre Dame football game at South Bend Saturday afternoon from the sidelines and the Notre Dame bench. Some of Bill's friends, members of the Notre Dame business staff, arranged for his entertainment and he was accorded field courtesies with a special seat on the side lines. He is today recuperating from the excitement at his home.

BY EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Combining a line packed with veterans with a backfield notable for its natural talent, the 1939 Western Conference all-star football team was selected for the Associated Press today by Big Ten coaches.

Voting by the mentors resulted in unusually close races for line posts and remarkable agreement on those deserving of first-team backfield positions.

To only one star went the honor of being a unanimous choice—Nile Kinnick, the brilliant Iowa all-around back. He drew 10 first team ballots. But close behind was Don Scott, husky quarterback on Ohio State's title eleven, who received nine first team ballots to earn the signal calling job on the mythical eleven.

Paired with Kinnick at the other halfback position was Michigan's brilliant Tom Harmon, while the fullback post was given Wisconsin's star battering ram, George Paskvan, whom coaches considered a standout at the position this fall.

Kinnick is Only Senior

Kinnick, the heart and soul of Iowa's great eleven, was the only senior in the first-team backfield, the three other players having one more season of competition.

Every position in the line was awarded seniors. The end positions went to Esco Sarkkinen, the great Ohio State flanker, and Erwin Prasse of Iowa. Prasse and Harmon were the only repeaters on the squad, both having made the 1938 first team. Dave Rankin, Purdue's fine end, earned second team ranking after a close race with the first-team winners.

Coaches were extremely well agreed on the talent of big Win Pedersen, Minnesota tackle. He drew eight first team votes and two second team ballots, to capture easily a tackle position. Paired with him was Illinois' James Reeder, a fine tackle even though his team had a rough year.

Rivalry of Guard Position

Hal Method, Northwestern, and Vic Marino of Ohio State won the guard positions after a hot race. A single ballot gave Marino first team ranking over the Illinois captain, Mel Brewer, while Indiana's James Logan, was in the race all the way.

John Haman of Northwestern, center on the 1938 second team, was moved up to the first team this season by the mentors as a reward for his consistently fine play. The second team pivot post went to Steve Andracko of Ohio State, with Jack Murray of Wisconsin, first all-star choice of last season, getting honorable mention.

Forest Evashevski of Michigan, first team quarterback choice last fall, was named signal caller on the second team after a season in which he was handicapped by injuries.

Ohio State's powerful team provided the all-star team with three players. Two Iowa players and two Northwestern stars were selected, with Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Minnesota placing one each.

OHIO STATE FINDS BIG TEN TITLE DOES NOT PAY WELL

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Winning Western conference championships doesn't pay at the gate—if you take Ohio State university's 1939 at-home football receipts as a criterion.

Last year, when the Bucks won four, lost three and tied one for their worst record in a decade, they drew 314,963 fans to five home games. This year, in winning six and losing two, and taking the Big Ten title all by themselves, they drew only 250,855 through the Ohio stadium turnstiles in five contests—a drop of 64,078, or an average loss of almost 13,000 per game.

BUCKEYES CLAIM CROWN AS IOWA'S 'IRON MEN' TIE

Wisconsin's 'Tough Luck' Team Takes the Cellar Of the Big 10

Chicago, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Ohio State ruled the 1939 Big Ten football roost today.

The Buckeyes slipped into the championship left-handedly Saturday when Iowa's little band of mighty "iron men" were able only to tie Northwestern, 7 to 7. If Iowa had won while Ohio State was losing to Michigan, 21 to 14, the Bucks and the Hawkeyes would have tied for the title.

A record of five wins and one defeat gave the Buckeyes the top spot. They defeated Minnesota, Northwestern, Indiana, Illinois and Chicago. They lost to Michigan and, outside the Western Conference to Cornell, the eastern powerhouse.

Iowa's sensational Nile Kinnick and 60-minute men blazed through the conference to come up from the depths last year to second place in the final standing, for the outstanding accomplishment in the circuit, or in many another league, for that matter. The Hawks, playing in Coach Eddie Anderson's first year, took the measure of Minnesota, Indiana, Wisconsin and Purdue, lost to Michigan and tied Northwestern, in addition to blasting Notre Dame, 7 to 6.

Purdue Is Third

Purdue found its way to third place with two victories, one defeat and two ties. The Boilermakers nosed out Indiana, Saturday, 7 to 6, in the "Old Oaken Bucket" battle.

Northwestern and Michigan tied for fourth place, each having three wins and two losses, while the Wildcats also had the Iowa tie in their record.

Illinois, which lambasted Chicago, 46 to 0, Saturday, headed the second division, in fifth place with a 5-0 standing, three wins and three losses. Minnesota, which beat Wisconsin Saturday, 25 to 6, wound up sixth, in the second division for the first time since 1930, with two wins, three losses and a tie.

Indiana was next with two victories and three defeats, then Chicago managed to stay out of the cellar by not losing as many conference games as did Wisconsin, the tough luck team. The Maroons lost three while the Badgers lost five and tied one. Neither won a conference game.

Four Teams Still in Running for Pro Grid Title

Chicago, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Detroit Lions, erstwhile sensations of the National Football League, have fallen by the wayside but four other teams still are in the running for the professional championship.

The regular season ends next Sunday when the two title-bearing contests will be played in New York and Detroit. The defending champions, New York Giants, entertain the Washington Redskins to decide the eastern division title and Green Bay plays the Lions. If the Packers win or tie the Western Division crown is theirs, but should they lose they would be tied with the Chicago Bears, necessitating a play-off.

The Lions were eliminated Sunday when the Redskins gave them a decisive setback, 31 to 7, before 36,183 spectators, largest crowd ever to attend a game in Washington. This game and four others drew 121,860 spectators, an average of more than 24,000 per game.

Cleveland, surprise victor over Detroit a week ago, had Green Bay beaten until the Packers pulled a "Frank Merriwell" late in the game to win, 7 to 6. The touchdown came on Cecil Isbell's 18-yard pass to Joe Laws in the end-zone. Then Paul Engbreiten booted the decisive point from placement.

The Chicago Bears clung to their slim chance of tying the Packers for western honors by romping over the Chicago Cards, 48 to 7, running their total points to 298, a new record.

The Giants had little trouble disposing of Brooklyn, 28 to 7. In the fifth Sabbath battle Pittsburgh finally crashed through with its first victory in 17 games, defeating Philadelphia, 24 to 12. After the two division winners have been determined they will meet in the championship-deciding battle in the home city of the western winners.

Surveying the remainder of the season's program by sections, what's left looks something like this:

EAST—Tossing the records aside, as always is done in this case, Army-Navy the game of the week. Nevertheless, Boston college and Holy Cross probably will play a lot more football in their Saturday meeting. Neither has lost to an eastern team this year, and the winner justly can claim equality with Cornell and Duquesne in the home sector. B. C. turned up last Saturday by whipping Kansas State, 35-7.

Tradition and color make this year's Army-Navy scrap at Philadelphia more than a contest for the championship of Kankakee, Ill., home town of the rival captains. Navy's 28-0 licking by Princeton's good team last Saturday was in keeping with the records the two have made all season.

Other windup games included Fordham-New York U., Stanford, Dartmouth, at New York, and George Washington-West Virginia. Of these, only George Washington played Saturday, beating Bucknell, 7-6. After Cornell, the standout of the last big day of the eastern campaign was Yale, which redeemed a dismal season by trouncing Harvard, 20-7. Penn States handed Pitt's one mighty Panthers a final 10-0 licking; Colgate and Columbia played a scoreless tie, and Lafayette beat Lehigh 29-13.

Midwest: The windup of the Big Ten season with the two leaders on the wrong side was a fitting climax for a season full of surprises.

Nebraska Is Second

Nebraska captured second place in the Big Six by downing Oklahoma, 13-7, but the Cornhuskers already had lost to Missouri, so that left only the Tigers in line for a post-season game.

Oklahoma Aggies moved into a tie with Washington University for the Missouri Valley conference lead by beating Creighton, 20-9, and Tulsa took third with a 14-6 12 passes for touchdowns this season.

While Bess and Griffin were named again on the first all-state, Al Stark of Geneva, repeated in the second backfield. Stark scored 116 points in the little seven this year, breaking his own conference record. He went into a backfield with Byford (Bile) Barr, who made 20 touchdowns for Mt. Vernon; Chuck Feutz, the 101.1 sprinter with Oak Park's suburban champs, and Bill Wheeler, Evans-ton's all-around performer.

FOUR TEAMS HAVE GRIDIRON CROWNS AS SEASON ENDS

Southern California Has To Win Two Before Claiming Title

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Cornell, Missouri, Ohio State and Texas A. & M. sported shiny new football crowns today, while Southern California, still shy the headpiece, wore all the other trappings of royalty.

The Trojans still have to win two more games before they officially become Pacific Coast conference champions. But no one expects them to lose after seeing them defeat Notre Dame, 20-12, Saturday at South Bend.

With the season about at an end, Southern California was figured a cinch for the Rose Bowl assignment next January, and the line was forming for the teams that would like to be there, too, or at least break into some sort of post-season game. Principal candidates now are Tennessee and the Texas Aggies, standouts in the small undefeated-and-untied brigade, with Tennessee the first choice, if

Jealous Spouse Slays Two, Wounds Two and Then Commits Suicide

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A young man crept into the home of his estranged wife early today, shot to death two women of her family, wounded his wife and her father, then took his own life.
Detective Peter McCormick said Stanley Krygier, 30, sent bullets into the hearts of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Nieckoski, 45, and her 17-year-old daughter, Florence, as they ran for a stairway to escape.
Wounded in the chest, Krygier's 22-year-old wife, Regina, sought to escape by plunging through her bedroom window to a porch roof. Krygier followed her, the detective said, and beat her with a hammer until she rolled to the pavement.
Her father, Felix Nieckoski, 57, was shot in the chest but fled the building by knotting together several sheets, tying them to a bedpost and lowering himself. He fell and broke his ankle.
McCormick said the young husband, a construction laborer, was maddened by jealousy of his wife and wanted her to establish a home away from her family.

Former Bartender Shot Yesterday in Aurora

Aurora, Ill., Nov. 27.—(AP)—A coroner's jury was summoned today for an inquest into the fatal shooting yesterday of John Arthur Reed, 33, a former bartender.
State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor, said that a complaint was filed before Magistrate Lambert Oshenschnager charging Reed's cousin, William Meeker, a factory foreman, with murder.
O'Connor said Meeker told him that Reed and George Plum had refused to get off his (Meeker's) property and that he fired one pistol shot into the ground. He fired a second shot, Meeker said, intending to "graze" the two men, but the bullet struck Reed and he died later in a hospital.
Plum's version of the shooting, O'Connor said, was that it occurred at the entrance of a tavern where Reed formerly worked. Carl Richmond, owner of the tavern, and Plum were held as material witnesses.

20 Election Officials Arrested in Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 27.—(AP)—State's attorneys police today arrested 20 election officials in the first ward on charges of contempt of court for permitting "gross errors" in the counting of votes at the April mayoral election.
The officials—judges and clerks—were placed in the county jail pending an appearance before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.
The arrests were announced as part of a county-wide drive conducted by a detail of employees of the election commission's office, which so far has resulted in the seizure of some 150 election officials on contempt charges.
The trial of five of these officials—from the twenty-eighth ward—opened today before Judge Jarecki, who accused Defense Attorney Joseph T. Harrington of employing "dilatory tactics." After an exchange of words, the court ordered the lawyer to sit down and the trial to start.

The average man has 7000 to 10,000 words in his vocabulary.

Student Union—

city high schools," the investigator declared, "it was found that the American Student Union was the agency used in spreading communism."

First Lady May Testify
Meanwhile, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she was willing to be a Dies committee witness—if she had any information which might be helpful.

The first lady, who has addressed the American Youth Congress and said repeatedly that she did not believe it was communist-controlled, was replying to a suggestion from Alfred M. Lillenthal of New York that she and he appear as opposing witnesses on the subject.

(The American Student Union is one of several organizations making up the American Youth Congress.)

Mrs. Roosevelt told her press conference she would not care to take sides as a witness in opposition to Lillenthal, who led a group which split off from the American Youth Congress, but she added: "I would answer anybody a questions asked in the interest of truth."

Asked if the Dies committee, which several times has had her name brought into its hearings, ever had asked her any questions, Mrs. Roosevelt said never. When a reporter asked if she would volunteer to testify before the committee the first lady asked why should she and replied certainly not.

"Noisy Minority"
Wilson declared the Student Union "is always a 'noisy' minority wherever it exists."

"It invariably gets representation on the school paper, if not full control," he said in his report. "It succeeds in getting space in these papers clearly in excess of its student membership. It is always opposed to the R. O. T. C. (Reserve Officers Training Corps, maintained by both army and navy in schools and colleges) at every opportunity."

"It is ever seeking to bring 'red' speakers to the campus and is active in sponsoring red movements wherever local or national in scope."

In the south, the investigator asserted, the Student Union "introduces the question of equality between negroes and whites into its program wherever it is possible."

As corroboration of this, he said, the union was responsible for telegrams which "flooded" the state of Missouri's law school demanding admission of negroes there.

Money From Moscow?
As to the teachers, Wilson declared unions had been organized in "all parts of the east and west and practically all cities of the south."

"Many leaders of these unions are, according to common report," he said, "zealously trying to comply with instructions issued by the (communist) party."

He said the Young Communist League had flooded campuses with literature, adding: "It is the universal opinion that many thousands of dollars expended in this way must of necessity come from Moscow."

In a change of plans, the committee deferred hearing testimony from William Novell, Detroit negro, whom Chairman Dies has described as "the most important witness the committee ever heard."

Wilson asserted that he had made contacts with the following institutions and individuals, among others, in his nationwide investigation:

State Superintendent of Education of Minnesota; presidents and deans of the University of Minnesota; University of Wisconsin, Madison; University of Chicago, Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.; Ohio State University, Columbus;

Washington university, St. Louis; University of Illinois, Champaign; Indiana university, Bloomington; Indiana state superintendent of education, Indianapolis; and school authorities in Cleveland, Ohio.

Man Saved From Gallows After Freepart Crime In 1890 Dies Yesterday

Freeport, Ill., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Frank W. Harris, 81, a member of the Canton, Ohio, Terriers in 1889 when that team won the Central League baseball championship, died yesterday at the East Moline state hospital.
A native of Pittsburgh, Harris came to Freeport in 1890. In 1895, he was convicted of murdering Charles Bengel of Freeport. He claimed Bengel had insulted his wife. He was sentenced to be hanged, but his penalty was commuted by Governor Altgeld. Harris served in the Joliet penitentiary until 1911 when he returned to Freeport and engaged in the tailoring and furrier business.

Ag Professor at State University Passes Away

Pana, Ill., Nov. 27.—(AP)—John J. Pieper, 53, professor of agriculture at the University of Illinois, died last night in the Huber Memorial hospital here.
Pieper, member of the state university faculty for 20 years, was stricken ill suddenly while returning with his wife to his home in Urbana by automobile from New Orleans. He died within a few minutes after reaching the hospital.

Pickets Jeer As 200 Negroes Go Back to Factory

Detroit, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Approximately 200 Negro foundryworkers entered the Chrysler main Dodge plant today unmolested as several thousand United Automobile Workers Union (C. I. O.) pickets jeered but offered no violence.

"Let the strike-breakers go in," a union spokesman cried through loud-speakers. "Don't stop them. There aren't enough to operate the plant and what the corporation wants is for you to stop them and start a fight."

A force of 1,000 police, warned that an attempt would be made to enter the strike-bound plant, stood by to prevent a possible repetition of Friday's violence, but they were not needed.

The picket line began to form at the plant gates long before dawn. Police estimates placed the number of pickets on hand, when the group of workers began entering, at upward of 3,500.

As the Negro foundryworkers marched toward the gates, a chorus of boos went up, but no attempt was made to halt them. About 50 men were denied admittance by the company when it was found they had no Dodge badges. The normal working force at the plant is 20,000.

Hunt Inmates of Reformatory Who Flew Saturday

Chillicothe, O., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Federal and state officials pressed a hunt today for one of four federal reformatory inmates who attacked two guards and fled Saturday night.

Acting Warden W. H. Hiatt said that William Powell, 17, of Cheyenne, Wyo., still was at liberty, but three other men who broke with him had been captured. They were identified as Earl Cox of Miami, Fla., and Robert Johnson of East St. Louis, Ill., both 17, and Perry Moore, 18, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

The guards, E. W. Grundhoeffer and Louis Baurlie, were treated for injuries received when beaten by the fugitives, Hiatt said. Their hurts were not believed serious.

Baurlie was knocked unconscious and locked in a closet in a building for recalcitrant prisoners dubbed "little Alcatraz." The fugitives then surprised Grundhoeffer and forced him to unlock a safe containing keys to an outside door. They then beat him severely and fled into the darkness. Neither guard was armed.

Cox was captured by guards within a few minutes. Moore was found on a nearby highway and Johnson was arrested in railroad yards.

State Welfare Director A. L. Bowen and Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, suspended managing officer of the hospital, posted bonds of $5,000 each. The other defendants, Dr. D. Louis Steinberg, assistant managing officer, and Mrs. Lillian Williams, dietitian, posted $3,000 bonds. All were in court.

Bids will be taken both on heavy wire fences seven and 12 feet high, it was announced. The legislature appropriated $26,000 for the fence as a means of reducing the number of escapes from the school, and at the direction of the Gunning legislative commission Welfare Director A. L. Bowen recently ordered construction to proceed.

Keller Says New Dealers Plan Reprisal Campaign Against Dixie's Salons

Washington, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Continued opposition to New Deal social legislation by southern conservative Democrats will stir up determined congressional and court fights to outlaw poll taxes, believes Rep. Kent E. Keller (D-Ill.).

The Ave. Ill. congressman said yesterday he was convinced that poll taxes were unconstitutional.

He said that "if these deep-southerners keep on trying to nullify such laws as the Wagner labor relations act and the wage-hour law, they are going to bring an anti-poll tax drive upon themselves. And they'll get the worst trimming of their lives."

The Illinoisan said that the current investigation of the National Labor Relations Board by a special House committee, headed by Rep. Smith (D-Va.) was one example of the southern opposition to which he referred. He accused the committee of "butting in" on the jurisdiction of the regular House labor committee, of which he is a member, but said he hoped the former would give the country "both sides of the picture."

He added, however, it seemed "apparent" that the investigating committee had invited foes of the labor board to air their complaints but had done nothing about giving the other side an opportunity.

National Guard Well Ahead of Its Program

Washington, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Joining the regular army in the expanded defense program, the National Guard reported today that its program of extra training and recruiting of 45,000 more men was ahead of schedule.

Additional field drill ordered since the start of the European war will be completed before January 1, officials said, despite far-reaching difficulties.

To carry out the intensive teamwork drills arranged in the wake of President Roosevelt's proclamation of a limited national emergency, most of the 200,000 guardsmen have had to obtain leave from civilian jobs. They took their usual two weeks' training last summer.

Order to Seize—

because, they said, of Germany's need for cash and foreign credits.

May Be Lenient
Britain was expected to explain, during the brief delay in making the blockade effective, that she was anxious to avoid penalizing neutral trade while trying to punish the reich. There were indications the blockade would not be enforced rigidly where grave hardships on neutral countries would result.

France announced officially November 22 that she had decided to take similar measures to cut off German exports.

Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Lord Chatfield, minister for coordination of the defense, attended the council.

Two hundred additional trawlers have volunteered or mine-sweeping duty, it was disclosed, in reply to Britain's appeal for aid.

Six neutrals with large shipping interests—Holland, Denmark, Belgium, Sweden, Italy and Japan—made advance representations against the decision announced by Prime Minister Chamberlain to "subject to seizure on the high seas" all "exports of German origin or ownership" whether carried in nazi ships or under neutral flags.

Two More Big Sea Losses
While the government gave careful attention to the neutrals' protests, two more large sea losses—the former Polish liner Pilsudski and the armer merchant cruiser Rawalpindi—raised the total of sunken shipping.

The loss of life aboard the Rawalpindi was estimated at about 250, with only 17 of the 16,697-ton vessel's crew of about 300 men escaping. Seven persons were missing from the Pilsudski.

The 14,194-ton Pilsudski, first trans-Atlantic liner built for the Polish republic, had been chartered to the British Admiralty. The Rawalpindi, former liner in the British-Orient trade, was one of the merchant cruiser fleet supplementing Britain's regular warships.

But Chamberlain, in a broadcast to the empire and the United States last night, declared "none of these losses affects our overwhelming naval superiority," and said that "already we know the secrets of the magnetic mine."

Chamberlain charged the Germans with ignoring the "considerations of humanity," particularly in sowing "indiscriminately" a new kind of mine mine and "daily blowing up neutral ships

On Wednesday evening the Odd Fellows held a district meeting at the local hall. The Rebekahs and their families, as well as the Odd Fellows and families, were invited.

A very fine program was presented. Miss Arlene Pierce and Mrs. Ivan Politich rendered a duet, and the hobo band presented several numbers. Grades Win 21-10

The Paw Paw grades beat Waterman on Wednesday evening at the Waterman gym by the one-sided score of 21 to 10. Paw Paw, although far smaller, played a smart, hard driving game that completely had Waterman on the defensive. Tommy Boyle and little Jimmy Hopkins led Paw Paw to victory.

Waterman Trounces Paw Paw

A really great Waterman quintet turned on the power Wednesday evening and humbled the fighting Paw Paw five, 54 to 18. The Waterman quintet, a "Waterman" team, big, fast, and deadly shots, never let the locals get started. Paw Paw played hard, but the odds were too great, and the Waterman five never let up their hot drive. This upsets the writer because he has never seen a team as well balanced and so powerful, on offense, as Waterman, in this section.

The Paw Paw seconds never had a chance as Waterman rolled to a 24 to 5 victory. The Paw Paw squad was completely outclassed by a fine Waterman five.

SPARE TIME LITERATI
Omaha, Neb. — (AP) — A young taxicab driver and his still younger brother — a bus-depot porter — have written a book. It's called "The Ridgewood Murders," and a publisher has accepted it.

It took Martin Humie, 28, and his 22-year-old brother, Carr Lyle, three years to turn out the book, started when both were students at Westington Springs, S. D., junior college.

Martin, who drives the cab, works 10 hours a day and collaborates with Carr Lyle, who has only a part-time job, when both can get together.

They've started another book, "FOR SALE."

World's Richest Riveter

Temporarily the "world's richest riveter," John D. Rockefeller, Jr., (left), wields a pneumatic hammer to drive the final rivet, a ceremonial one of silver alloy, into the final building of the vast Rockefeller Center development in New York. Assisting him is steel foreman N. L. Carpenter.

GRACE EVANGELICAL CHURCH

Rev. Finley used Revelations 2:1-7 for his text Sunday morning and he said in part:
"The church of Sardis is like the church today. It is easy to be absorbed in worldly interests. This was true in the case of this church. They were busy but had become indifferent. It is easy to become spiritually dead, even when we are working. We have never had a time in history where we were not ashamed of the Word of God, and needed prayer meetings and revivals as we do today.
"We will never forget the experience of God when our sins were forgiven. No love is ever as great as the first love.
"God help America if it does not have the decency to say, 'I cannot stand that which tears down body and soul.' God help us to have an old time revival. God keep us in such contact with Thee and Thy Word that we will not be able to bear what is evil. It is hard to have revivals today and to win souls—not because sin is worse today, but because Christians have become indifferent.
"We ought to get radical once for God and stir up our hearts for a revival. In a football game some player makes a touchdown. A good five dollar hat goes up in the air and out in the crowd still when it comes to the salvation of precious souls we can be so at ease. Let us stir up our hearts for an old time revival."
The first night Rev. Finley led from Mark 9:17-27 and said in part:

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

AT BRETHREN CHURCH

The evangelistic campaign launched at the Brethren church Sunday morning with Rev. and Mrs. Oliver Austin of McPherson, Kan., started off with much enthusiasm and every indication points to a successful series. There were 178 at Sunday school and at the close of the school Mrs. Austin told an interesting Bible story to the boys and girls which was also enjoyed by the older people. At 11 o'clock Mr. Austin was presented to the large audience by the pastor Rev. William E. Thompson and he spoke on the theme "The Church" and gave an urgent challenge for cooperation on the part of the entire membership in this special effort to strengthen the spiritual life of the church and reach new members for the kingdom of Jesus Christ. Mr. Austin is a forceful speaker and presents his message in an attractive manner. He and Mrs. Austin were here in a similar campaign in 1924 and they are not strangers to Dixon.
Last night another large congregation greeted the evangelists, Mrs. Austin an accomplished singer, led the congregation in singing a number of old hymns which carried the evangelistic spirit. In the sermon Mr. Austin related the interesting Bible story of Jonathan and David and their love for one another and how Jonathan willingly let David take over the kingship of the children of Israel which rightfully belonged to him. Tonight will be men's night and they will be honored in this service. The evangelist urged the women to bring the men and boys since everyone is invited to attend. Wednesday night will be family night and entire families are asked to attend and sit together as much as possible. Thursday night

"I believe in Jesus Christ. I believe in religion. People will say that and they will miss heaven by within. We say, 'I believe Jesus Christ can save me,' but we don't do anything about it.
"There are four steps that lead to God. (1) Conviction. Do you believe you need to be saved? Do you believe you cannot save yourself? Do you believe that only Christ can save you? Do you believe it is the only way you can get to Heaven? That's conviction. (2) Confession. Are you willing for God to save you His way? Or are you to be saved in your own way? God will state the terms when we are saved. (3) Conversion. Will you accept Him? (4) Confession. Will you confess Him? Or are you ashamed to confess Him?"
